

Parent Resource Newsletter

Monthly tip for parents

Listen and Learn with Audio Books

Audio books are a wonderful way to expose your child to complex language, expressive reading, and fantastic stories. Listening to audio books also gives kids the valuable and enjoyable experience of using their own imagination to visualize the people and places they're hearing about. Audio books are a great way to experience stories anytime, anywhere.

What to look for

- Familiar stories. For your child, listening to an audio book is a very different experience from hearing you read a book aloud. Look for audio books of stories your child has heard you read or tell before. Being familiar with the story will help your child enjoy hearing it from a different reader and become a willing listener.
- Easy-to-use format. Consider what format will work best for you and your child. Audio books are available as CDs, pre-loaded MP3, and digital. You can often find them at your local public library. There are also many online digital services such as Audible and Tales2Go.
- Quality titles. When choosing audio book titles, seek suggestions from your librarian and recommendations from experts, such as Notable Children's Recordings from the American Library Association. But also get kid opinions on selections to help get them invested before listening begins.
- Good production. Whenever possible, listen to a sample of the audio book before you dive in. If the narrator's voice grates on your nerves or you find added music and sound effects to be a distraction, you'll save listeners in your family some time and pain.

What to do

- Listen to audio books together. Audio books are a wonderful shared reading experience and a shared story gives everyone in the family something to talk about. Plus, you can help boost your child's thinking skills by asking questions about what you've listened to or take turns with your child retelling favorite parts of the story.
- Feel free to stop listening. If an audio book isn't engaging, try another!
- Keep your young listeners in mind. While kids can listen on a higher level than they can read, some stories may be too complex for young listeners to follow and enjoy. There is an abundance of audio picture books and poetry to enjoy and no need to rush straight into Harry Potter.
- Don't let audio books take the place of you reading aloud to your child or telling them stories. The time you spend together will help your child make a lasting discovery of what reading for pleasure is all about.

Resource: www. Reading Rockets; January 2017 article, By: Reading Rockets, Rachael Walker

WHAT PARENTS CAN DO

Helping Your Child Succeed

Teach Kindness in Kids

One Way: Assign chores.

Kids should understand that a certain amount of helping is requested and required "just because": just because they're members of a family, just because they live under the same roof, and just because it's the right thing to do. So show them where the cat food is or how to clear the dinner table and make their beds. And keep a chore chart to track and reward completion of their tasks. Your kids will feel great pride in doing their share and learn the importance of helping others.

Did You Know

This year, Random Acts of Kindness Week begins February 12-18, marking the beginning of a week-long celebration dedicated to encouraging people to do one thing: be kind. While the delivery of this message is appropriate for all times, it's especially appropriate now.

History: Random Acts Of Kindness Day (this year, February 17th in the USA) was first created in Denver, Colorado in 1995, Random Acts of Kindness can include just about anything, including something as simple as sharing an umbrella in the rain, lifting someone up with your words with a compliment, giving a smile or simple hello to a stranger...all these things can help to really turn around someone who's having a bad day.

How to Celebrate? Every day should be a day to be kind, but here are some ways to spread kindness around on this day.

- * Smile at a stranger at your bus stop.
- * Say "thank you" to your bus driver for driving you safely.
- * Compliment a friend.
- * Buy someone their favorite snack.
- * Help your neighbor shovel snow.
- * Make a note to do nice things throughout the day and use #RandomActsOfKindnessDay to post on social media.

Did You Know... that randomness is a mathematical concept? In statistics and probability, a random event means that it cannot be predicted.

Raise a Lifelong Learner

Learning never stops! Help your child continue learning throughout his/her life by instilling these traits in them.

Curiosity

Encourage your youngster to ask questions and come up with ideas. Post an interesting newspaper or magazine photo (without the caption) on the refrigerator, and hang up a blank piece of paper for family members to write questions and thoughts. Example: "This might be in Paris because that looks like part of the Eiffel Tower." After a few days, post the caption and ask your child to compare everyone's ideas.

Enthusiasm

Your youngster will probably be more excited about learning if he/she sees how it relates to real life. Have him/her choose something they are studying in school and think of ways he/she could explore it firsthand. If they study plants in science, they might want to grow tomatoes or beans at home and use them in recipes. Or they could look online or in the newspaper for "field trip" ideas. Perhaps they want to go to a museum to see flags and objects from around the world or visit a nature center to observe insects and reptiles. ♥

Resource: Home and School Connection, Feb. 2014

SCHOOL NEWS

*****

Time off in February

Monday - February 20th - Don't forget Monday is President's Day and a day off from school. Presidents' Day, celebrated each year on the third Monday in February, is a day when Americans honor the legacies of the U.S. presidents. The holiday was established in 1800, when Congress declared February 22—George Washington's birthday—a federal holiday. Presidents' Day has become a day to honor not only Washington, but Abraham Lincoln, the 16th U.S. president who was born on February 12. To celebrate President's Day, head to the library and checkout a book on the lives and accomplishments of all U.S. presidents.

Site Review

Resources available for Parents and Families:

Check out this Website:

BrainPOP is a trusted learning resource supporting core and supplemental subjects; reaching millions of learners worldwide. It gently encourages young learners to ask questions and form their own ideas. BrainPOP has engaging learning games, animated movies and activities designed with relevance, depth and humor to encourage kids on their unique learning path. Kids learn about historical events, science and even the stock market, all with the help of a plucky robot and his friends. Check it out!

Kids' Corner

Create a Kindness Jar for Random Acts of Kindness Week

Can you imagine a community of people doing kind acts? Even if the recipient is not doing a good deed, you will be touching them and making them smile. First, get out a pen and some paper and brainstorm some kind activities you can do for family members, friends, teachers or others... no matter how big or small. You will be surprised how easily you come up with ideas. Then follow directions below:

Materials: a Mason jar, coffee can or another type of container, kind acts written out on strips of paper

Directions:

1. Print kind acts onto strips of paper: For example:
At School: sit by someone who is sitting alone at lunch, pick up trash in the hallway, write a thank you note to a teacher, etc.
At Home: help mom with the dishes, play with baby brother while mom takes a rest, get Dad his newspaper, or help sister learn how to ride a bike.
2. Put your strips into jar.
3. Pull one strip out each day and do that kind act sometime during Random Acts of Kindness Week.
4. Using the Five W's (Who, What, Where, Why, When, and How) keep a journal and write daily the kind acts you performed or share aloud your kind activity experience with your family.

Here are our 2016-2017 Title I Contacts for our Title I Program at your school

Literacy Coach; Mrs. Rachel Yohn:

Davey School (330-676-7409)
Longcoy School (330-676-8379)

Literacy Coach, Mrs. Kristin Garner:

Holden School (330-676-8400)
Walls School (330-676-8300)

Parent Involvement Coordinator,

Ms. Pam Bose: All Schools (330-676-7425)

Federal Grants Coordinator, Mrs. Karen

Rumley, Director of Instructional Program:
All Schools (330-676-7600)

Buckeye Chuck sees his shadow. Predicts 6 more weeks of winter !!

Parents
plus
Schools equals
Success